

Buca Di Beppo and Bertucci's, two of the nation's well known Italian restaurant franchises joined together with Talent Resources at the onset of the Covid-19 crisis as they immediately saw an opportunity to help families, households and first responders in need. As their social media agency of record, Talent Resources spread the word that they were offering free delivery from their restaurants nationwide while also donating meals to hospitals around the country. Utilizing a number of influencers from all areas of entertainment and sports to get the word out, Talent Resources helped to create commerce, convenience, and community.
